Short Biography (up to 200 words):

Marina Radovanović has been working at the Institute of International Politics and Economics since March 2023. The fields of her academic interest include European integration, the political and legal system of the EU, peaceful settlement of international disputes, border disputes in the Balkan region, and human rights. At the moment, she is a PhD student in International and European Studies at the University of Belgrade – Faculty of Political Sciences. At the same faculty, she previously completed a bachelor's degree, as well as a master's degree in International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights Law.

She has gained academic and professional experience through various workshops, projects, and regional and international scientific conferences. Some of them brought together participants from the Balkan countries, such as Resolving border disputes in former Yugoslavia: If students can - so can you and Mainstreaming Humanity in Western Balkans: From Education to Reconciliation – HUMAIN.

She is a holder of the Fund for Young Talents' Dositeja award, as well as a scholarship holder from the Ministry of Education and from the OSCE Mission to Serbia.
